Program Description

Intensive Care Coordination (ICC) in the High-Fidelity Wraparound (HFW) Model provides an evidence-based, structured approach to care coordination that is designed for youth and families where the youth is in, or at risk of, an out-of-home placement. This model can also support youth that are transitioning back to the community after an out-of-home placement. The HFW model is a 12-18 month process to reach self-efficacy.

ICC using the HFW approach is a process of care management that holistically addresses the behavioral and social needs of a youth and family in order to develop self-efficacy. The youth and family are integral to the HFW process which provides them with voice and choice in the selection of their “team”, development of the plan and delivery of services. The youth and family are supported in this team process by the ICC facilitator, support partners, the professional system partners and those natural supports identified as important by the family. This team works together to identify the family’s vision goals and needs and then develops specific measurable plans to accomplish those outcomes making certain to honor family culture.

The HFW model embraces a specific Theory of Change which centers on increasing youth and family self-efficacy by prioritizing youth and family needs, developing natural supports, and integrating planning. As a result of the TOC, and the structured phases and activities, ICC in a HFW model is distinct from other clinical and case management approaches.
